ELEGANT STEEL · FOR THE SALES TEAM

Raju's Voice Note

Raju's Voice Note — a story for every sales rep

One good 30-second note = faster help, more sales

One good 30-second note = faster help, more sales

Inside

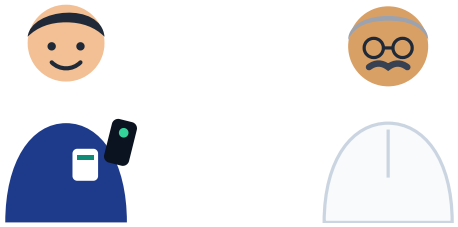

1. Raju's bad day · 2. Raju's good day
3. One-word magic: the headline · 4. The five-finger rule
5. Good vs bad notes · 6. Pocket card

STORY · CHAPTER 1

Raju's bad day

1 10 a.m., Ratan-da's shop

"Three days, and my 5 tonnes still haven't come! SRMB says they can deliver tomorrow."

Ratan-da is very angry.

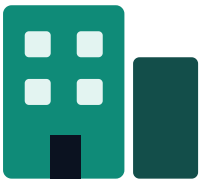

2 Raju is in a hurry

"Visit done. Discussed."

Just 4 words. Who? What happened? How much? When? — nothing.

3 The note reaches head office

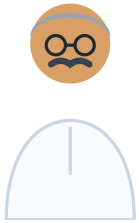

HEAD OFFICE

"Which shop? What problem? We can't understand anything..."

Nobody understood, so nobody did anything.

4 One week later

"I'm buying another company's bars now."

Ratan-da left. Raju lost the order.

A short note = a lost chance

The problem was small. Head office could have fixed it in one day — if they had known.

STORY · CHAPTER 2

Raju's good day

This time Raju took 30 seconds and said:

"Headline: COMPLAINT. Ratan Saha, dealer, Barasat. He ordered 5 tonnes 3 days ago and the bars still haven't come. He is very angry. SRMB says they can deliver tomorrow. I'll call him again tomorrow at 11 a.m."

1 Understood in 1 minute

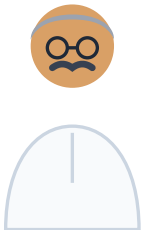

Head office understood at once: late delivery, 5 tonnes, angry dealer.

2 A truck the next morning

The depot found the order that day and delivered the next morning.

3 Ratan-da is happy

"Send 3 more tonnes." Ratan-da stayed with us.

Same shop, same problem — only the note was different

Look at the coloured parts. Each colour answers one question. The next pages show you how.

STEP 1

One-word magic: Headline

Start every note by saying “Headline”, then one of the 9 words below — in English, exactly as written.

ORDER
The customer wants to buy, or has ordered.

PAYMENT
Money collected, or money still due.

COMPETITOR
Another brand is cheaper, or the customer uses another brand.

COMPLAINT
Late delivery, bad material, or an unhappy customer.

SITE
A house or building is going up or starting soon — it will need bars.

NEW CUSTOMER
A new shop, a new mason, a new customer.

ENGINEER
They need an engineer or technical help.

HAPPY
The customer is happy and praising us.

NO RESULT
You met them, but nothing came of it.

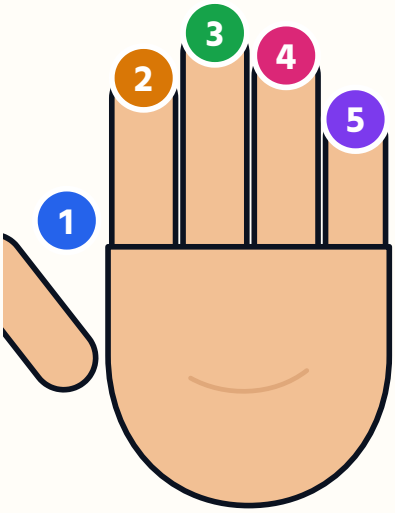

Two things happened?
Say the most urgent one first. A complaint plus a new order: “Headline: COMPLAINT”, then mention the order in the note.

Why English words?
The computer recognises these 9 words exactly. The rest of the note can be in Bengali, Hindi or English — whatever is easiest.

STEP 2

The five-finger rule

After the headline, count the 5 fingers of your hand and answer 5 questions. Each finger = 2 points. 5 fingers = 10/10.

1 — Who?
The customer's name and who they are: dealer, retailer, mason, engineer, house owner.

2 — What happened?
The real result in one line: ordered, paid, complained...

3 — How much?
Say numbers! How many tonnes, how many rupees, what percent. If nothing, say “no order”.

4 — Which brand?
Our bars, or someone else's? If another brand, name it — SRMB, Tata Tiscon, whichever.

5 — When?
What happens next and when: “call tomorrow at 11”, “delivery on Monday”, “payment on the 10th”.

Rhyme to remember: “Who, what, how much, which brand, when — five fingers make a perfect ten!”

STEP 3

Bad note vs good note

✗ Bad 2/10

"Did payment follow-up."

✓ Good 10/10

"Headline: PAYMENT. Samir Das, dealer, Maa Tara Traders. 2 lakh rupees was due; he paid 50 thousand today, the rest on the 10th. Happy with our bars."

✗ Bad 1/10

"Site visit. Discussed."

✓ Good 10/10

"Headline: SITE. Mason Bapi Mondal, Barrackpore. Casting for a G+2 house starts on the 15th; about 8 tonnes needed. Looking at Tata now. I'll go back on Monday with our rate."

✗ Bad 3/10

"The client said price is high."

✓ Good 10/10

"Headline: COMPETITOR. Retailer Amal Ghosh, Bongaon. Says SRMB is 800 rupees a tonne cheaper. Needs 3 tonnes this month. We must give our rate by Thursday."

A good note isn't long — it's clear. 30 seconds is enough.

EXAMPLES

One sample for every headline

ORDER "Headline: ORDER. Dealer Subhash Pal, Habra. 4 tonnes of 10 mm confirmed. Wants delivery on Wednesday."

PAYMENT "Headline: PAYMENT. Retailer Shyamal De. 80 thousand due; paid 30 thousand today, the rest on Saturday."

COMPETITOR "Headline: COMPETITOR. Mason Ravi Shaw. Using Tata Tiscon at the site; says their bars are straighter. I'll show our sample on Friday."

COMPLAINT "Headline: COMPLAINT. Dealer Manoj Saha. 2 bundles in the last delivery are rusted. Sending photos. Must be replaced by tomorrow."

SITE "Headline: SITE. House owner Anita Biswas, Naihati. Roof casting next month; needs about 6 tonnes. I'll go back on the 1st."

NEW CUSTOMER "Headline: NEW CUSTOMER. New hardware shop, Maa Durga Stores, owner Tapan Kar. Wants 2 tonnes to start. I'll give our rate on Monday."

ENGINEER "Headline: ENGINEER. Engineer Suman Roy, government school project. Wants the test certificate for our bars. We must send our engineer this week."

HAPPY "Headline: HAPPY. Mason Kalu Sheikh. Very happy with our bars; will tell 3 more masons. Coming to the masons' meeting next month."

NO RESULT "Headline: NO RESULT. Retailer Biplab Das. Shop was closed; spoke on the phone; needs nothing now. I'll go back in 15 days."

All names and places on these pages are made up, for practice only.

REMEMBER

Do this, not that

✓ Do

- Record as soon as you leave the shop, while you still remember.
- Stand somewhere quiet and hold the phone close to your mouth.
- Say numbers clearly: “four tonnes”, “fifty thousand”.
- One note for each shop.
- Nothing happened? Say so honestly: “Headline: NO RESULT”.

✗ Don't

- Notes under 8 words — “Visit done” is no use.
- Saying “the client” or “customer” instead of the name.
- Recording in traffic noise.
- Two shops in one note.
- Made-up details. Wrong information leads head office to wrong decisions.

Raju says: “The computer reads your note, then passes it to the right person.”

Complaints go to the depot, money to accounts, new sites to the sales manager. The clearer the headline, the faster the help.

CUT OUT AND KEEP

Pocket card

Cut along the dotted line. Keep one in your wallet, stick one on your bike.

The 30-second note

Elegant Steel

Headline → Who → What happened → How much → Which brand → When next

Headline words: ORDER · PAYMENT · COMPETITOR · COMPLAINT · SITE · NEW CUSTOMER · ENGINEER · HAPPY · NO RESULT

"Who, what, how much, which brand, when — five fingers make a perfect ten!"

30-second note

Elegant Steel

Headline → Who → What happened → How much → Which brand → When next

"Headline: ORDER. Subhash Pal, dealer, Habra. 4 tonnes of 10 mm confirmed. Our brand. Delivery on Wednesday."

Say the headline word in English. The rest can be in Bengali, Hindi or English.

Ask yourself 3 things

1. Did I say the headline? 2. A number? 3. The next date?

LAST WORD

Your note, your win

Faster help
A clear note gets the depot, accounts and managers moving the same day.

Customers stay
When problems are fixed fast, customers don't switch brands.

Fewer phone calls
When the note has everything, head office doesn't need to call and ask.

Your work gets noticed
Every order and every new site is recorded in your name.

"From today, every note: Headline + five fingers. 30 seconds. That's it!"